1. About noon on 18 July 1954, the southeasternmost building of the "M.H. Seehof" near the Oggau (47°52' N/34°19' E) railroad station was apparently occupied by the operating personnel of a radar set which was located just southeast of the building. Ten to 15 meters south of the radar set whose type could not be identified was a generator. A tent, was observed between the radar set and the generator. A truck occupied by 5 Soviet soldiers was parked near the quartering building. ¹
2. Between 1100 and 1300 on 18 July, a Token-type radar set was observed on Hill No 226 (Kogel), about 600 meters east-northeast of the Sankt Margarethen (47°48' N/34°16' E) railroad station. About 10 meters southwest of the Token-type set was a Fishnet-type radar set. ² Two low wooden quartering buildings were located about 100 meters west of the Token-type set and a signal motor vehicle was between the two temporary buildings. The buildings and signal truck were connected to the Token-type set by a line. When the set rotated it was noticed that the screen of the radar set consisted of a frame covered by a close meshed wire net. A dipole support probably projected from the middle of the screen. The set rotated ~~and was observed without projecting any energy.~~

1. ~~For location of radar station, see Annex. The reported building of the Seehof has previously been used as quartering facility for operating personnel of a radar station in the Oggau area.~~
2. ~~For location of radar station near Sankt Margarethen, see Annex. This radar station is reported for the first time. Additional Token-type radar sets in Austria are located at Parbasdorf and at Zwölfaxing airfield.~~
